

Teacher Checklist: Creating Quality Posts in Profile of Success Portfolios

A quality Post is more than just a snapshot of student work; it is a meaningful artifact that showcases a connection to the competencies outlined in the district, school, or board's Profile of Success (or Portrait of a Graduate/Portrait of a Learner). Quality Posts should not only include an artifact, but a student reflection on their progress towards building their competencies/skills and steps for future growth.

Thanks for sharing your reflection, Maya! You highlighted the steps you took to prepare for giving an effective presentation and the steps you will take next time to further improve. What strategies will you try in your next presentation to slow down?

My 2025 Goals Presentation + Reflection

This is the presentation that I completed in homeroom today. It's all about my 2025 goals and the steps I am planning to take to achieve them. I really think that I can! I also recorded my voice as my reflection which I completed after I presented. I tried to communicate effectively when giving my presentation by speaking loud and clear, facing the audience, making eye contact, and using my voice to get the audience interested. I always get nervous for presentations so I tried to practice a lot beforehand!! I think it went well but next time I need to remember to slow down as I think I went too fast.

Elements of a Quality Post

Attached Media

Ensure the Post includes artifacts relevant to the Profile of Success competencies/skills. Use documents, photos, videos, voice recordings, and more to capture student learning.

Informative Title

Ensure that the Post includes an informative title. For example, "Science Fair Project + Reflection."

Meaningful Reflection

Ensure that the Post includes a reflection relevant to the competency being documented. For example, if the artifact demonstrates effective communication, include a reflection identifying how this relates to this competency.

Tip: Reflections can be written or media-based such as an audio or video recording!

Selection of an Appropriate Portfolio Section

Ensure that the Post is placed in the appropriate Portfolio Section. It should match the competency being demonstrated in the artifact and reflection.

Teacher Feedback

Comment...

Provide clear feedback that highlights areas of strength and areas of improvement. Encourage students to expand on their reflections by providing question prompts.

Quality over Quantity

Posts should provide insight into the student's learning and experiences as it relates to the Profile of Success attributes. Each Post should be reflective of the student's progress toward the selected competency/skill.

Relevance to Student Success, Not Just Sharing

While photos of classroom events and student creations celebrate academic achievements, encourage students to take a holistic approach by showcasing evidence of their learning both inside and outside the classroom.
